Inland Ports Across North America
September 6-7, 2007
San Antonio, Texas

Mark your calendar for the annual Inland Ports Across North America (IPANA) Conference coming up September 6-7, 2007 in San Antonio at the beloved historic Menger Hotel. The 2006 conference was a very successful event focusing on several components of the rail industry. This year the conference will focus on the air cargo industry, and will draw participants from multiple geographic and economic regions.

The program will be geared towards shippers, freight forwarders, port authorities, developers, customs brokers, foreign trade zones, 3PLs, equipment suppliers and others players in the supply chain. Conference attendees will benefit from learning the latest on intermodal trends, cargo security, new logistics corridors, port technology and the air cargo industry.

The day-and-a-half program will include workshops such as: "Developing an Air Cargo Strategic Plan: From Concept to Operation," "Integrating Multi-modal Service," "Air Cargo Security: Buckle Up for the Turbulence," and "Critical Components in a Successful Supply Chain" among others. The panels will be structured to provide maximum interaction and time for questions and answers between the attendees and panelists.
